TUBEROUS BEGONIAS

SUPERIOR WEST COAST STRAIN

Tuberous begonias are growing in popularity each year because more and more people are finding that the luxuriant, expensive-looking plants are not so difficult to grow as they had imagined. Begonias are ideal in any shady spot in your yard, or in pots, hanging baskets and porch boxes. Start the tubers inside in flats in early spring. Move outside in large pots or baskets or to the open ground when danger of frost is over. Complete growing instructions are included with each order.

To those of you who enjoy the newest and finest we offer the following varieties....

RUFFLED CAMELLIA TYPE

This type is the result of crossing the Camellia and Carnation types. The petals of the flowers are beautifully ruffled and scalloped, no two plants having exactly the same flowers as to ruffling, tinting and fullness or depth of bloom.

Colors: white, yellow, salmon, rose, scarlet, dark red.

Large tubers 50¢ each $5.00 per dozen

RED TRIUMPH - Exceptionally large, beautifully ruffled Double Camellia type flowers with velvety textured ruby-red petals.

Each $1.00 3 for $2.75, $10.00 per dozen

AUTUMN GLOW - A large crested type, the crests of which are copper, the petals apricot. The flowers are huge, sometimes measuring 10" across.

Each $1.00 3 for $2.75, $10.00 per dozen

SUNSET - Very large frilled type, the center light copper, the frilled edges scarlet.

Each $1.00, 3 for $2.75, $10.00 per dozen

GLOXINIAS

FINEST WEST COAST STRAIN

According to a recent poll, Gloxinias, next to African Violets are the most popular of all flowering plants of this type in America today. The leaves of the plants are large and velvety, the flowers on well grown plants are many and measure up to 4 inches and more in diameter. It is a thrilling experience to watch each bud as it enlarges and unfolds. The colors too are gorgeous, shades of deep rose and red, velvety purples, pure white, with spots, veins, and rims of contrasting colors. Tubers should be started in January or February.

Complete growing instructions with each order.

A rarity but nevertheless a bulb of easiest garden handling. Plant, dig and store as you would gladiolus.

ACHIMENES

A plant closely related to the African Violet and grown under similar conditions, or planted in pots or boxes in shady places out of door, will be covered with large violet shaped flowers of blue purple or purplish rose. It blooms about the same time as Tuberous Begonias and the tubers are carried over winter much in the same manner. Tubers are small and should be planted in groups.

DAYLILY CULTURE

DAYLILIES are of the easiest culture being practically without pests and diseases. They bloom very freely and many of them at a time when other flowers are out of season. After they become established they will grow without fertilizer and with a minimum of watering. However a good organic fertilizer and watering during the dry season are of benefit in increasing the size of the flowers. Daylilies in the past were predominantly yellow. Now in addition to the many shades of yellow, they come in dainty pinks and coral, in many shades of rose, red and purple, as well as two-toned, bi-colored and with various rings, blotches and other contrasting markings. Daylily culture has become a fascinating hobby to many people who collect and grow and in some instances hybridize, there being some 5,000 named varieties at the present time with thousands of un-named seedlings in the trial stage. No matter how few or how many you decide to plant you will not be disappointed. They are the most dependable of flowering plants and always make a satisfactory showing.
